

BAMBADJAN BAMBA | BIOGRAPHY

Bambadjan Bamba is an award winning actor, filmmaker, and immigrant rights advocate. He has worked in prominent roles on numerous hit television shows like NBC's The Good Place, ABC's Grey's Anatomy, Amazon's Bosch and in blockbuster films like Marvel's Black Panther, DC comic's Suicide Squad and Oscar-nominated film Beginners. In 2017 Bambadjan publicly disclosed that he was a recipient of the federal Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program (DACA) that is in danger of being terminated. Ever since Bambadjan has used his inspirational story to change the conversation around immigration. Bambadjan gives talks at college campuses, events, and media outlets around the country.

His writing was published in the Washington Post, NBC, CNN and he is a contributor in the New York Times bestseller "American Like Me: Reflections on life between cultures" by award-winning actress America Ferrera.

Bambadjan is the winner of a SAG Award for his performance in Black Panther. He is also the recipient of the Courageous Advocate Award from the ACLU and the Courageous Luminary award from NILC (National Immigration Law Center). He serves as a board member for the African Artists Association.

Bambadjan loves the outdoors and enjoys playing tennis. He lives in Los Angeles with his wife and young daughter.

#BAMBA